The U.S. Marine Detachment in Islamabad, with the support of the U.S. Embassy in Pakistan, distributed toys to children injured by the October 8 Earthquake. The donation is part of the Marine's annual "Toys for Tots" campaign. The children are being treated at the Rehabilitation Center at the National Institute for Special Education in Islamabad, which is being run by the Women's Aid Trust and Children's Resource International (CRI).

The U.S. Marine Detachment in Islamabad, with the support of the U.S. Embassy in Pakistan, distributed toys to children who were injured by the October 8 Earthquake, as part of the Marine's annual "Toys for Tots" program. Founded in 1947, the "Toys for Tots" campaign offers a message of hope to youngsters and provides them positive encouragement to inspire them to grow into responsible, productive, patriotic citizens and community leaders.
