Road Construction on Peiling Peninsula

Aerial photography of 30 June 1955, as interpreted in the field, reveals the construction of a new road leading out the Peiling Peninsula from north of Lien Chiang to Kuan Ling. Although construction is in the first stages, a 45-foot wide right-of-way is evident, indicating a heavy duty type road similar to roads in the Loyuan area. This road could easily be extended to connect the local service roads which have recently been constructed on the Peiling Peninsula with the main coastal route and facilitate the movement of supplies overland to the beach areas directly facing the Matsu.
