Dear Bill,

The time you took to talk yesterday with key executives of the newspaper business was deeply appreciated. It was not lost on the group that so many of your senior executives participated so fully and thoughtfully.

The specific FOI issue is an important one, and enlightened discussion is bound to help.

More generally, it is absolutely vital that these two foundation institutions of our society remain in orderly contact. As you know, I have made the argument on both sides of the fence that a strong, free country and a strong, free press are inseparable.

Please know, also, that many of us whose previous federal service provided us both experience and understanding of the challenges you face are available to assist you whenever and however appropriate.

Sincerely,

Jerry
