MEETING IN TEHRAN

JOHN OBERSHAW: A French news magazine reports the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency is working on a psychological action plan against the Arab oil producing states.

The magazine Le Point says CIA station chiefs in the Middle East gathered in Tehran to study a plan aimed at pressuring the oil producers by spreading word of a possible military intervention.

The French report adds that the meeting was called by a former CIA chief Richard Helms -- he's now Ambassador to Iran, based in Tehran -- on orders from Washington.
