Control Methods
~~CONTROL~~

All sources, who are unknown to each other, upon receipt of information from subsources give all reports a check for completeness and correctness, and if there are any glaring or obvious errors the reports are immediately returned to subsources, otherwise they are forwarded to the Gmunden Center by courier.

Upon receipt of information from sources through couriers and some reports direct from sources, the information is again checked for its accuracy and completeness.

For cross-checking purposes the Gmunden Center receives information from several sources who are unknown to each other, on the same topic, by which the Center is able to check on the accuracy of reports or on the reliability of a particular source or subsource. In instances where there is any great doubt about an important report, or where the reliability of a source or subsource is doubted, several sources and subsources are asked to check the points questioned.

PROCESSING

Upon receipt of information by sources from sub-sources it is carefully checked. Once the source feels that the information is as complete and correct as possible he forwards it by courier to the center in Gmunden. When it arrives in Gmunden it is first processed by KERNMAYER who is a fairly capable evaluator, having lived in Hungary for some time during World War II, and it is also checked by SIKE who ~~has a~~ sharp mind seems to be an encyclopedia of information. The information is then passed on to SILLEY who checks the new reports with reports previously received and makes references on the new reports to these ~~ones~~ ones. Once the information has gone through these three persons it is translated by SILLEY into English.

When the information has been completely processed by the Center it is taken to CIC Gmunden by the ~~Key~~ Key Operations operative who makes at least two weekly trips to CIC. The ~~Key~~ Key operative and Control Agent take each report separately and go over it point by point for discrepancies and detail. If there are any points that cannot be cleared up on the spot the report is returned by the ~~Key~~ Key operative to source for clarification. This is only done, however, if the time factor is of no great importance on the information being reported. The accepted reports are then prepared by CIC Gmunden for forwarding as SOIs. The same procedure is used when Evaluation Slips are received from ODI and there are questions to be answered.

FUTURE OF PERSONNEL

The future of personnel connected with Network
"Montgomery" appears to be stable since the majority of its members are bona-fide residents of Hungary.
Hungarian Personnel living in Austria have asserted that they will leave Austria only, if and when Hungary is no longer a Communistic State. There are no present projected changes in personnel as the Network has undergone a renovation in the past three months.

EXPANSION POSSIBILITIES

Continued and partially confined reports that the Hungarian border will be closed against illegal border traffic indicate that expansion would be impractical since "Montgomery" couriers cross the borders illegally. Possible installations of radios within Hungary would reduce the present risk taken by couriers and would accommodate any future expansion of the project.

NOTE: None of the couriers or main sources are known to any of the other couriers or sources. Only two couriers have direct contact with the Gmunden Center.

d. Methods and degree of control.

All sources, who are unknown to each other, upon receipt of information from subsources give all reports a check for completeness and correctness, and if there are any glaring or obvious errors the reports are immediately returned to subsources, otherwise they are forwarded to the Gmunden Center by courier.

Upon receipt of information from sources through couriers and some reports direct from sources, the information is again checked for its accuracy and completeness.

For cross-checking purposes the Gmunden Center receives information from several sources who are unknown to each other, on the same topic, by which the Center is able to check on the accuracy of reports or on the reliability of a particular source or subsource. In instances where there is any great doubt about an important report or the reliability of a source or subsource is doubted, several sources and subsources are asked to check the points questioned.

e. Methods of complete information processing.

Upon receipt of information by sources from subsources it is carefully checked as indicated above. Once the source feels that the information is as complete and correct as possible he forwards it by courier to the center in Gmunden. When it arrives in Gmunden it is first processed by KERNMAYER who is a fairly capable evaluator, having lived in Hungary for some time during World War II, and it is also checked by SIKE whose brain seems to be an encyclopedia of information. The information is then passed on to SILLEY who checks the new reports with reports previously received and makes references on the new reports to these old ones. Once the information has gone through these three persons it is translated by SILLEY into English.

When the information has been completely processed by the Center it is taken to CIC Gmunden by the Key Operative who make at least two weekly trips to CIC. The Key Operative and Control Agent take each report separately and go over it point by point for discrepancies and detail. If there are any points that cannot be cleared up on the spot the report is returned by the Key Operator to source for clarification. This is only done, however, if the time factor is of no great importance on the information being reported. The accepted reports are then prepared by CIC Gmunden for forwarding as SOIs. The same procedure is used when Evaluation Slips are received from ODI and there are questions to answered.

h. Personal Evaluation of sources.

10/6336 (B-3) see Network report "Mount Vernon".

10/8444 (B-3) KERNMAYR has been working as Key Operative of this network since November 1948 and during that time, with the unfaltering approval of the present operator, resurrected a deteriorating network left in a state of chaos by the former Key Operative NEY, Dr. Karoly. His efforts in rebuilding the network are worthy of commendation.

10/7844 (C-3) This source is continually improving the calibre of information turned by his sub-sources.

10/7854 (C-3) This source, although new in the network turns in good information which has been corroborated partially and in full by reports received from other networks.

10/7134 (C-3) Source turns in good reports on industrial and military activities.

10/6324 (C-3) This source, also new in the network, continually turns in the majority of good reports received from this network.

i. Future of Personnel.

The future of personnel connected with Network "Montgomery" appears to be stable since the majority of its members are bona fide residents of Hungary. Personnel living in Austria have asserted that they will leave Austrian only, if and when Hungary is no longer a Communistic State. There are no present projected changes in personnel as the Network has undergone a renovation in the past three months.

j. Documentation.

- 10/8444 - Austrian I. D. Card
- 10/7844 - Austrian DP Ausweiss and Green Allied Travel Permit
- 10/7844D - Austrian I. D. Card (to be picked up)
- 10/7844E - Austrian I. D. Card (to be picked up)

SIKE, Alajos possesses Austrian Dp Ausweiss.
SILLY possesses Austrian I. D. Card under name SINGER, Arnold.
All other members of this network operating in Austria possess Austrian DP Ausweisses and those living in Hungary possess necessary Hungarian papers.

k. Present location and cover of all installations used by network.

The Gmunden Center for project "Montgomery" is located in the Villa Marie-Louise, Altmuenster 193, Gmunden, Upper Austria. The villa is registered in the name of KEBRMAYR who is in turned registered as a newspaper correspondent.

l. Recommended location and cover.

m. Possibilities for expansion.

Continued and partially confirmed reports^{INDICATE} that the Hungarian border will be closed against illegal border traffic indicate that expansion would be impractical since "Montgomery" couriers cross the borders illegally. Possible installations of radios within Hungary would reduce the present risk taken by couriers and would accomodate any future expansion of the project.
