Dear Mr. Suter:

Thank you for sending us Network-Based Management Systems by Archibald and Villoria. I am passing it on to our planning, scheduling, and control people. I am sure they will make good use of it.

Sincerely,

/s/ L. K. White

Dear Mr. Suter:

Thank you for the copy of Network-Based Management Systems by Archibald and Villoria.

I find it both comprehensive and detailed. Planning and action have improved with the adoption of more systematic analysis and control of long-range programs. I emerge with the conviction, however, that the book is too preoccupied with how to proceed and too little concerned with why. Imagination and understanding of alternative objectives and approaches seem subservient to process and schedules.

Despite this minor shortcoming, I am confident that it will prove of great value to many people in the management field.

Sincerely,

Richard Helms
Director

 We're somewhat green on this sort of thing, but [redacted] tells me the attached is about what would come out of the DD/I. It has the great virtue of honesty. Frankly, it's not a good book, but [redacted] would like it for our shelves if nobody up there wants it.
