MEMORANDUM FOR: The Director

SUBJECT: Warren Littman - Department of Justice

1. Warren Littman was brought into the Department of Justice in 1954 by William Tompkins, theoretically to head a unit having to do with labor union cases that might be brought before the Subversive Activities Control Board. He still holds this position but he spent a good deal of his time on public relations for Tompkins. He came from Los Angeles and probably was doing public relations there; at least he is not listed in Martindale-Hubbell among the Los Angeles lawyers. He apparently has a strong interest in trying to develop TV shows and drew up a scheme for putting on a half hour program about "Know your Department of Justice." This got some acceptance but was finally dropped in view of commitments to other publicity outfits. Outside of his interest in public relations and promotion, there is some indication

2. If you want anything further, I will try to get it. I do not know Mr. Littman personally.
