Dear Lowell:

Upon my return from a three week's trip to Europe, I found your letter of August 13, about Mrs.

[Redacted]

I know her well by reputation,

and believe that on one occasion I had a far too casual meeting with her. I should certainly like to see her again, but fear that my trip abroad may have prevented that. If she is still in this vicinity, I should certainly like to see her.

Faithfully yours,

(Signed) ALLEN W. DULLES
