

20 February 1952

MEMORANDUM FOR: DEPUTY DIRECTOR/INTELLIGENCE

I have been trying to engineer a change in the personnel pool of new employees so that the time spent in this pool can be used for training. However, in order to occupy the people in the pool, it has developed with other offices of the Agency, largely OGD, the doing of work projects of an unclassified nature. These projects must be handled elsewhere if we convert the pool to a training pool. Last month, the OGD project, which is of a recurring nature, occupied 2,000 man hours at the pool. Will you please examine this OGD work and give us your opinion of whether it is as important as training and whether it can be done elsewhere in the Agency? Who did it before we began to do it at the pool? The decision here, as you see, involves a policy question affecting one of your offices, and I would appreciate your opinion.

Stuart Hodson
Inspector General

cc: Director of Training

IG:SH:b

Distr: Orig 1-add

1-Director of Trg.
2-signer
1-IR

MORI/CDF