Dear Mr. Walters:

STAT

While an undergraduate at [Redacted] I was in contact with a [Redacted] concerning the prospect of employment in your firm. Some years later, as an Avalon Fellow in the Master's degree [Redacted]

STAT

[Redacted] in the [Redacted] I was again in contact with both [Redacted] as well as a colleague of his. I then received a letter at [Redacted] during my Ph.D. studies again concerning employment.

I am very interested in working with the Central Intelligence Agency and wish to apply for a position. Being familiar with the firm, I believe that working with the C.I.A. would be both interesting and challenging and that my qualifications and personal experiences would enable me to contribute to your Agency and subsequently enjoy a satisfying career.

I have taken the liberty of enclosing my curriculum vitae for your convenience. As can be seen, I have a background of leadership and decision-making within an academic and international advisory context. Of course, I shall be happy to supply references from [Redacted]

STAT

[Redacted] Should you require any further particulars, please do not hesitate to notify me.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,
