Dear [Redacted]

I returned yesterday from [Redacted] and this is the first chance I have had to send off a line to thank you for my visit, though I attempted to express my appreciation in a telegram relayed from [Redacted]

What reply did [Redacted] receive from [Redacted] regarding our famous tanker? Would you let me know as soon as possible.

You mentioned last week that you might be interested in working with Admiral Hillenkoetter in the Central Intelligence Agency. I spoke to him of this during our [Redacted] trip and he said there were still some very interesting places available and should you wish to pursue the question further you should write to him at the Central Intelligence Agency, Washington 25, D.C. He is sailing back tomorrow on the Queen Elisabeth to the United States.

Should you decide to write to him in this connection, please let me know.

I am off to [Redacted] in an hour to be back tomorrow and I hope to write you more intelligently next week.

Hastily yours.
