NEW EXECUTIVE ORDER 12036, WHICH
SUPERSEDES EXECUTIVE ORDER 11905

1. Executive Order 11905, issued on February 18, 1976 by President Ford, delineated the authorities, responsibilities, duties, and limitations of the various officials and agencies responsible for the performance of national foreign intelligence and counterintelligence functions. That order has served as the primary source of guidance concerning the proper scope of intelligence activities ever since. On January 24, 1978, President Carter signed and issued Executive Order 12036, which supersedes Executive Order 11905. The purpose of this notice is to familiarize employees generally with the provisions in Executive Order 12036, particularly insofar as they affect CIA and differ from the provisions of Executive Order 11905.

2. The new order is intended principally to implement Presidential Directive NSC-17 of August 4, 1977, which established the full and exclusive authority of the Director of Central Intelligence for approval of the National Foreign Intelligence Program budget. Thus the statement of the Director's authorities in the new order has been expanded to include the various functions necessary to carry out this responsibility. In addition, the Presidential Directive mandated a stronger role for the Director in the establishment of intelligence requirements as well as the direction and coordination of the collection systems available to fulfill those requirements. The new order accomplishes this by designating the Director as Chairman of the National Security Council's cabinet-level Policy Review Committee for the purpose of establishing requirements, and by creating the National Intelligence Tasking Center, under the control of the Director, which is responsible for developing specific collection objectives to meet those requirements. The Director also has been specifically recognized as the focal point for intelligence arrangements with foreign governments and as the principal spokesman to the Congress, the news media, and the public on intelligence matters. The Director is authorized to draw the support necessary to discharge the national foreign intelligence functions assigned to the Director from staff elements within the Office of the Director as well as CIA. Further, the National Foreign Intelligence Board is recognized and "established" under the order to advise the Director in the performance of these responsibilities.
3. The CIA authorities have been expanded in the new order to recognize not only those functions explicitly authorized in Executive Order 11905, but also the Agency's responsibilities for the conduct and support of technical collection programs, for the clandestine collection of foreign intelligence within the U.S. in coordination with the FBI, for the coordination of all foreign counterintelligence and clandestine foreign intelligence collection activities conducted abroad, and for the provision of legal, legislative, and other administrative support to the Director. Except for wartime, or where the President determines another intelligence entity may be better suited to achieve the objective, only CIA may perform special activities in support of U.S. foreign policy objectives.

4. The National Security Council's Special Coordination Committee, which includes the Director, will continue in its role as the advisory body to the President concerning special activities in support of U.S. foreign policy objectives. In addition, sensitive foreign intelligence collection operations will be reported by the Director to the Chairman of this committee for appropriate review and approval under standards established by the President. A new responsibility of this committee is the development of policy regarding the conduct and objectives of national foreign counterintelligence activities and the approval of such counterintelligence activities or proposals as the President determines require such approval.

5. No existing restriction on CIA activities has been removed. Absolute prohibitions continue to be in effect concerning CIA-conducted electronic surveillance within the U.S. and unconsented physical searches within the U.S. As to other types of activity which CIA is authorized to perform in the course of its foreign intelligence functions, the supervisory role of the Attorney General has been enlarged in terms of both tone and substance. Existing requirements for Attorney General approval or compliance with Attorney General-approved procedures governing CIA conduct of counterintelligence activities with the FBI in the U.S., FBI intelligence and counterintelligence activities including electronic surveillance within the U.S. in support of CIA and other intelligence agencies, electronic surveillance directed against U.S. persons abroad, CIA testing of electronic equipment in the U.S., and unconsented physical searches directed against U.S. persons abroad have been continued. The new order specifically requires, in addition, that the Attorney General approve procedures governing CIA conduct of foreign intelligence collection activities in the U.S., activities which also must be coordinated with the FBI; physical surveillance directed against limited categories of U.S. persons in the U.S. and abroad; surreptitious movie and television surveillance within the U.S. or directed against a U.S. person abroad; audio countermeasures activities; training on electronic communications equipment; examination of mail of a U.S. person; undisclosed participation in organizations within the U.S.; all types of collection, as well as dissemination and storage, of the limited categories of nonpublic information concerning the domestic and foreign activities of U.S. persons. which the order allows to be acquired; the provision of expert personnel (as opposed to specialized equipment or technical knowledge) to assist federal agencies, or where lives are endangered, local law enforcement agencies; and concealment of CIA-sponsorship in contracting with private companies. Further, in circumstances where a warrant would be required if the activity were undertaken for law enforcement purposes, electronic surveillance, TV and movie surveillance, physical searches, and mail surveillance may not be directed against a U.S. person without a warrant unless the President has authorized the activity and the Attorney General has approved and found probable cause to believe the U.S. person is an agent of a foreign power. In addition, a new section has been added which charges the Attorney General with approving the procedures for these various activities with the objective of ensuring compliance with law, protecting constitutional rights and privacy, and ensuring that intelligence activities authorized to be directed against U.S. persons employ the least intrusive means necessary to achieve their purposes. Until the Attorney General has approved the new procedures required by the order, the activities to be affected are to continue to be conducted in accordance with Executive Order 11905. In all other respects Executive Order 12036 takes effect immediately.

6. The section formerly restricting "infiltration or undisclosed participation" in U.S. organizations now provides that employees may not "join, or otherwise participate in" such organizations on behalf of the Agency without disclosure of their CIA affiliation, except for certain types of participation which are to be approved by the Attorney General and described generally in a public document. Further, this participation must be of limited scope and duration, and nondisclosure must be determined to be essential to achieving lawful purposes under approved procedures. The prohibitions on collection of information concerning U.S. persons have been extended to include information concerning their activities abroad as well as in the U.S., and the existing exceptions to this bar have been modified to include such information acquired through overhead reconnaissance or for the purpose of assisting the State Department in locating U.S. persons abroad. The requirement that academic institutions be made aware of Agency sponsorship of contracts and agreements for goods and services has been retained. This requirement has been extended to agreements with private companies except where it is determined under approved procedures that concealment from the company of CIA sponsorship is necessary for essential cover or proprietary reasons. Assistance to law enforcement agencies may now include providing expert personnel under approved procedures, dissemination of lawfully collected information to Federal or local authorities when it indicates criminal activities, and participation in the prevention or detection of clandestine intelligence activities or international terrorist or narcotics activities. The order also contains a new section barring an intelligence agency from using third parties to indirectly accomplish purposes otherwise forbidden by the order or by law.
7. Other significant revisions include the explicit recognition of the oversight functions of the Senate and House Select Committee on Intelligence and a description of the responsibilities of the Director and heads of other agencies to report various matters to those committees. The intelligence activities of the FBI, formerly excepted from the restrictions provisions of Executive Order 11905, have now been brought specifically within the limitations of the new order. In addition, the Drug Enforcement Administration has been added to the agencies constituting the Intelligence Community and its intelligence functions have been made subject to Attorney General procedures and DCI coordination. Section 7 of Executive Order 11905, which required a Community-wide mandatory secrecy agreement for the protection of intelligence sources and methods, has been omitted in its entirety from the new order. All relevant terms have been incorporated into a single definitions section rather than appearing in duplicative definitions sections as was the case in Executive Order 11905. Definitions have been added for "Communications Security," "Intelligence Product," and "International Terrorist Activities" and information concerning terrorism has been included in the definition of "foreign intelligence" as well as "foreign counterintelligence." The composition of the National Foreign Intelligence Program has become more fluid because of the provision for three categories of programs: (1) those that are included without question (such as CIA and the staff elements of the Office of the Director); (2) those that are included unless the Director and the Secretary of Defense agree to their exclusion (such as the Consolidated Cryptologic Program, the General Defense Intelligence Program, and the special reconnaissance programs); and (3) those that are excluded unless the Director and the appropriate agency head agree to their inclusion (such as the intelligence elements of the FBI). Tactical military intelligence activities are specifically excluded from the NFIP.

8. This notice is not intended to represent a definitive interpretation of the new order and constitutes a mere summary of its more prominent features. Employees are encouraged to review the new order in its entirety in order to gain a more complete understanding of its contents and determine the manner in which it affects the performance of their duties. Any ambiguity or question which arises concerning the interpretation of the new order and its application to the Agency's functions should be referred to the Office of General Counsel. Likewise there should be referred to that office any question regarding the need to modify Agency regulations, directives, instructions, or policies so as to conform them to the provisions and requirements of the new order.

Restrictions on Intelligence Activities

2–1. Adherence to Law.

2–101. Purpose. Information about the capabilities, intentions and activities of foreign powers, organizations, or persons and their agents is essential to informed decision-making in the areas of national defense and foreign relations. The measures employed to acquire such information should be responsive to legitimate governmental needs and must be conducted in a manner that preserves and respects established concepts of privacy and civil liberties.

2–102. Principles of Interpretation. Sections 2–201 through 2–309 set forth limitations which, in addition to other applicable laws, are intended to achieve the proper balance between protection of individual rights and acquisition of essential information. Those sections do not authorize any activity not authorized by sections 1-101 through 1-1503 and do not provide any exemption from any other law.

(a) The activities described in Sections 2-202 through 2-208 shall be undertaken only as permitted by this Order and by procedures established by the head of the agency concerned and approved by the Attorney General. Those procedures shall protect constitutional rights and privacy, ensure that information is gathered by the least intrusive means possible, and limit use of such information to lawful governmental purposes.

(b) Activities described in sections 2-202 through 2-205 for which a warrant would be required if undertaken for law enforcement rather than intelligence purposes shall not be undertaken against a United States person without a judicial warrant, unless the President has authorized the type of activity involved and the Attorney General has both approved the particular activity and determined that there is probable cause to believe that the United States person is an agent of a foreign power.

2-202. Electronic Surveillance. The CIA may not engage in any electronic surveillance within the United States. No agency within the Intelligence Community shall engage in any electronic surveillance directed against a United States person abroad or designed to intercept a communication sent from, or intended for receipt within, the United States except as permitted by the procedures established pursuant to section 2-201. Training of personnel by agencies in the Intelligence Community in the use of electronic communications equipment, testing by such agencies of such equipment, and the use of measures to determine the existence and capability of electronic surveillance equipment being used unlawfully shall not be prohibited and shall also be governed by such procedures. Such activities shall be limited in scope and duration to those necessary to carry out the training, testing or countermeasures purpose. No information derived from communications intercepted in the course of such training, testing or use of countermeasures may be retained or used for any other purpose.

2-203. Television Cameras and Other Monitoring. No agency within the Intelligence Community shall use any electronic or mechanical device surreptitiously and continuously to monitor any person within the United States, or any United States person abroad, except as permitted by the procedures established pursuant to Section 2-201.

2-204. Physical Searches. No agency within the Intelligence Community except the FBI may conduct any unconsented physical searches within the United States. All such searches conducted by the FBI, as well as all such searches conducted by any agency within the Intelligence Community outside the United States and directed against United States persons, shall be undertaken only as permitted by procedures established pursuant to Section 2-201.

2-205. Mail Surveillance. No agency within the Intelligence Community shall open mail or examine envelopes in United States postal channels, except in accordance with applicable statutes and regulations. No agency within the Intelligence Community shall open mail of a United States person abroad except as permitted by procedures established pursuant to Section 2-201.

2-206. Physical Surveillance. The FBI may conduct physical surveillance directed against United States persons or others only in the course of a lawful investigation. Other agencies within the Intelligence Community may not undertake any physical surveillance directed against a United States person unless:
THE PRESIDENT

(a) The surveillance is conducted outside the United States and the person being surveilled is reasonably believed to be acting on behalf of a foreign power, engaging in international terrorist activities, or engaging in narcotics production or trafficking;

(b) The surveillance is conducted solely for the purpose of identifying a person who is in contact with someone who is the subject of a foreign intelligence or counterintelligence investigation; or

(c) That person is being surveilled for the purpose of protecting foreign intelligence and counterintelligence sources and methods from unauthorized disclosure or is the subject of a lawful counterintelligence, personnel, physical or communications security investigation.

(d) No surveillance under paragraph (c) of this section may be conducted within the United States unless the person being surveilled is a present employee, intelligence agency contractor or employee of such a contractor, or is a military person employed by a non-intelligence element of a military service. Outside the United States such surveillance may also be conducted against a former employee, intelligence agency contractor or employee of a contractor or a civilian person employed by a non-intelligence element of an agency within the Intelligence Community. A person who is in contact with such a present or former employee or contractor may also be surveilled, but only to the extent necessary to identify that person.

2–207. Undisclosed Participation in Domestic Organizations. No employees may join, or otherwise participate in, any organization within the United States on behalf of any agency within the Intelligence Community without disclosing their intelligence affiliation to appropriate officials of the organization, except as permitted by procedures established pursuant to Section 2–201. Such procedures shall provide for disclosure of such affiliation in all cases unless the agency head or a designee approved by the Attorney General finds that non-disclosure is essential to achieving lawful purposes, and that finding is subject to review by the Attorney General. Those procedures shall further limit undisclosed participation to cases where:

(a) The participation is undertaken on behalf of the FBI in the course of a lawful investigation;

(b) The organization concerned is composed primarily of individuals who are not United States persons and is reasonably believed to be acting on behalf of a foreign power; or

(c) The participation is strictly limited in its nature, scope and duration to that necessary for other lawful purposes relating to foreign intelligence and is a type of participation approved by the Attorney General and set forth in a public document. No such participation may be undertaken for the purpose of influencing the activity of the organization or its members.

2–208. Collection of Nonpublicly Available Information. No agency within the Intelligence Community may collect, disseminate or store information concerning the activities of United States persons that is not available publicly, unless it does so with their consent or as permitted by procedures established pursuant to Section 2–201. Those procedures shall limit collection, storage or dissemination to the following types of information:

(a) Information concerning corporations or other commercial organizations or activities that constitutes foreign intelligence or counterintelligence;

(b) Information arising out of a lawful counterintelligence or personnel, physical or communications security investigation;

(c) Information concerning present or former employees, present or former intelligence agency contractors or their present or former employees, or applicants for any such employment or contracting, which is needed to protect foreign intelligence or counterintelligence sources or methods from unauthorized disclosure;
(d) Information needed solely to identify individuals in contact with those persons described in paragraph (c) of this section or with someone who is the subject of a lawful foreign intelligence or counterintelligence investigation;

(c) Information concerning persons who are reasonably believed to be potential sources or contacts, but only for the purpose of determining the suitability or credibility of such persons;

(f) Information constituting foreign intelligence or counterintelligence gathered abroad or from electronic surveillance conducted in compliance with Section 2–202 or from cooperating sources in the United States;

(g) Information about a person who is reasonably believed to be acting on behalf of a foreign power, engaging in international terrorist activities or narcotics production or trafficking, or endangering the safety of a person protected by the United States Secret Service or the Department of State;

(h) Information acquired by overhead reconnaissance not directed at specific United States persons;

(i) Information concerning United States persons abroad that is obtained in response to requests from the Department of State for support of its consular responsibilities relating to the welfare of those persons;

(j) Information collected, received, disseminated or stored by the FBI and necessary to fulfill its lawful investigative responsibilities; or

(k) Information concerning persons or activities that pose a clear threat to any facility or personnel of an agency within the Intelligence Community. Such information may be retained only by the agency threatened and, if appropriate, by the United States Secret Service and the FBI.

2–3. Additional Restrictions and Limitations.

The subject's informed consent shall be documented as required by those guidelines.

2–303. Restrictions on Contracting. No agency within the Intelligence Community shall enter into a contract or arrangement for the provision of goods or services with private companies or institutions in the United States unless the agency sponsorship is known to the appropriate officials of the company or institution. In the case of any company or institution other than an academic institution, intelligence agency sponsorship may be concealed where it is determined, pursuant to procedures approved by the Attorney General, that such concealment is necessary to maintain essential cover or proprietary arrangements for authorized intelligence purposes.

2–304. Restrictions on Personnel Assigned to Other Agencies. An employee detailed to another agency within the federal government shall be responsible to the host agency and shall not report to the parent agency on the affairs of the host agency unless so directed by the host agency. The head of the host agency, and any successor, shall be informed of the employee's relationship with the parent agency.

2–305. Prohibition on Assassination. No person employed by or acting on behalf of the United States Government shall engage in, or conspire to engage in, assassination.

2–306. Restrictions on Special Activities. No component of the United States Government except an agency within the Intelligence Community may conduct any special activity. No such agency except the CIA (or the military services in wartime) may conduct any special activity unless the President determines, with the SCC’s advice, that another agency is more likely to achieve a particular objective.

2–307. Restrictions on Indirect Participation in Prohibited Activities. No agency of the Intelligence Community shall request or otherwise encourage, directly or indirectly, any person, organization, or government agency to undertake activities forbidden by this Order or by applicable law.

2–308. Restrictions on Assistance to Law Enforcement Authorities. Agencies within the Intelligence Community other than the FBI shall not, except as expressly authorized by law:
