LEBANON: The Hizb Allah

Summary

"Hizb Allah" (Party of God) is a generic term that refers to the pro-Iranian radical Shia movement in Lebanon. The movement is composed of a number of loosely-organized groups---most are based in Lebanon's Bekaa Valley---that use both terrorist and subversive political methods to accomplish their objectives. The terrorist component, which often refers to itself as "Islamic Jihad" (Holy War), is determined to drive the US and Israel out of Lebanon and to establish an Islamic state there. This terrorist network, operating with Iranian assistance, almost certainly carried out the recent Embassy bombing as well as the Multinational Force bombings last October. Shia terrorism in Lebanon is likely to continue for the foreseeable future. [redacted] b 3

Structure, Size, and Leadership

The Hizb Allah movement is composed of several relatively small groups supported by Iran:

- Islamic Amal: Husayn Musawi withdrew from the mainline Amal movement---the moderate Shia grouping headed by Nabih Barri---and created this extremist organization in the Bekaa Valley in 1982. It is the most organized

-- Muslim Students Union: Muhammad Husayn Fadlallah, a fundamentalist cleric in southern Beirut, controls this group, which we believe is intimately involved with the other radical Shia groups. [

Background and Ideology

The Hizb Allah terrorists are driven by an Islamic fundamentalist ideology that is relentlessly hostile to the US and Israel. They are determined to drive the US and Israel out of Lebanon through terrorism directed against our personnel and installations. Radical leaders almost certainly viewed the withdrawal of the Marine contingent from Beirut last winter as proof of the effectiveness of terrorist tactics. [

The Shia extremists are also committed to the goal of establishing an Islamic republic in Lebanon through revolutionary means. They therefore intend to use violence to disrupt the Lebanese Government's attempts to implement a security plan for Beirut and the surrounding area. [

b-1, b-3

The Iranian revolution, the death of their spiritual leader Imam Musa Sadr, and the Israeli invasion of predominantly-Shia southern Lebanon galvanized the Shias and set the stage for the emergence of radical groups prone to terrorism. Relatively few individuals belong to these organizations---perhaps fewer than 1,000---but they can operate effectively because Iran supports them and because they have the sympathy of a significant segment of the Lebanese Shia population. [

External Ties

Iran encourages and provides training and material support to the radical Shia groups based in the Bekaa Valley. [

Damascus

currently supports efforts by the Lebanese Government to stabilize the security situation in Beirut and no longer welcomes disruptive Shia terrorism. We believe Syria also wants US assistance in ending the Israeli occupation of southern Lebanon and fears that such attacks will discourage the US from adopting a more active role. [REDACTED] b3

The Most Recent Embassy Bombing

An overwhelming body of circumstantial evidence points to the Hizb Allah, operating with Iranian support under the cover name of Islamic Jihad.

b-1, b3 [

-- Anonymous telephone callers in Beirut have warned several times this year that Islamic Jihad would attack US interests, and two callers have claimed responsibility for this bombing in the name of the organization.

b-1, b3

-- The method of attack strongly implicates the Hizb Allah. Suicide vehicle-bombs have been their principal trademark, and Shia fundamentalists are the only organized terrorists in Lebanon likely to willingly sacrifice their lives in such an attack.
