Rwanda: Violence Extending to Aid Workers

International aid workers say that the massacres in Rwanda are continuing and that senior Rwandan Government officials are making lists of Tutsi elites and Hutu moderates to be killed [redacted]. Moreover, the military and the Tutsi-dominated Rwandan Patriotic Front both fired artillery yesterday at a UN relief convoy heading toward a displaced persons camp 30 km south of Kigali. Hutu militias threatened relief workers at the camp with pistols and grenades.

— If the RPF captures the capital, Hutu militias may retreat toward the south, where large numbers of displaced persons are believed to be located.

— The military began extending a runway in the southwest on Tuesday, a move that aid workers believe is to accommodate arms shipments, [redacted]
