

~~SECRET~~

TIER
10/4

(b)(3)

CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY

DIRECTORATE OF INTELLIGENCE

TERRORISM REVIEW

CIADI TR 2001-05

DI TR 2001-05
July-August 2001

Copy
0317

~~SECRET~~

~~SECRET~~ [redacted]

On 8 July in General Santos, a bomb exploded at a carnival injuring 23 persons, according to press reports. The Moro Islamic Liberation Front or the National Democratic Front could possibly be responsible. [redacted]

Sri Lanka

On 5 June in Oddamavadi, according to press reports, armed militants fired mortar rounds into the village injuring 15 persons and damaging a mosque. The Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam claimed responsibility. [redacted]

Europe

Italy

On 16 July in Genoa, a police officer was injured when a letter bomb exploded, according to press reports. Later that evening outside Carlini Stadium, police officers found and defused a larger bomb. No one claimed responsibility for either incident. [redacted]

Northern Ireland

On 11 June in Belfast, two Royal Ulster Constabulary officers were injured when a crowd attacked them with blast bombs. The officers had just discovered 50 kilograms of homemade explosives and a handgun at an abandoned building, according to press reports. No one claimed responsibility. [redacted]

On 19 June in Belfast, four armed gunmen chased a man out of his house and, after catching him, shot his ankles, according to press reports. No one claimed responsibility. [redacted]

On 19 June in Belfast, armed persons shot a man in the hand and leg in a paramilitary-style attack, according to press reports. No one claimed responsibility. [redacted]

Spain

On 28 June in Madrid, a parcel bomb exploded outside the home of a General, injuring the officer and 14 others, according to press reports. No one claimed responsibility, but authorities suspect the Basque Fatherland and Liberty (ETA). [redacted]

On 10 July in Madrid, a car bomb exploded outside the Justice Ministry's Information Technology Department, killing one police officer and wounding 12 civilians, according to press reports. No one claimed responsibility, but authorities suspect the ETA. [redacted]

On 14 July in Leiza, Navarre region, a car bomb exploded, killing a councilor of the Union of the Navarrese People, according to press reports. No one claimed responsibility, but authorities are confident the ETA is responsible. [redacted]

On 14 July in Guipuzcoa Province, unidentified persons shot and killed a policeman, according to press reports. No one claimed responsibility. [redacted]

On 27 July in Barcelona, a bomb exploded outside a savings bank office, injuring three persons and causing major material damage, according to press reports. No one claimed responsibility. [redacted]

~~SECRET~~ [redacted]