2. Organization of Israeli Security and Intelligence Services

REF: DIR 32810

1. The requirements in reference were pretty much anticipated by the station, and with time most of the answers can probably be obtained. It is interesting to note that the first information on the Central Institute for Intelligence and Security (see [NFVA]1385) antedated the EICHMANN case. It was made public in connection with the budget and the justification for the allocation of funds. The EICHMANN case provided the stimulus, however, for the rest of the flood of information.

2. The EICHMANN case has been reported in [NFVA]1394 and [NFVA]1395. An interesting note in [NFVA]1394 (in view of the statement now being sent the Argentine Government in which EICHMANN writes that he came voluntarily) was [] comment that it was obvious that EICHMANN would not come to Israel of his own free will. [NFVA]1395 furnished the statement [] made to a reporter. [NFVA]1411 contains information on the confirmation ~~of the identification~~ of EICHMANN. The latest information is being put into [NFVA]1433/

3. Information on [] appeared in the Post, as noted in [NFVA]1400. [NFVA]1425 adds that there was no survey other than what actually appeared in the Post. The survey was the work, of course, of [] The most detailed account of a [] component [] was forwarded in [NFVA]1424. There is also a lengthy article in the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune by Alvin Rosenfeld, date-lined Tel Aviv, May 30, which will be furnished.

4. Information on [] personalities was furnished in [NFVA]1401 and [NFVA]1402, and in [NFVA]1431 currently being prepared. All three furnish newspaper profiles. A sidelight on [] personnel is forwarded in [NFVA]1432.
