Romanian Iron Guard
Internal Security - Romania

A confidential source who has furnished reliable information in the past recently furnished the following information:

The source learned that Octavian Rosu, a member of the Romanian Iron Guard (RIG), a fascist-type organization, and a loyal follower of the Horia Sima faction of the RIG, has now been living in Detroit, Michigan, for two years, after many years of exile in Italy. It was assumed that when he came to the United States he would take leadership of the RIG members in Detroit, but now he is isolated by the other RIG members, including CHIRILA CIUNTU, a Simist leader residing in Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

George Roman, a former member of the Horia Sima group of the RIG in Detroit and President of the Romanian National Committee of Detroit and the owner of a Romanian radio program in that city, is now being accused by his former comrades of collaborating with the Romanian Embassy in Washington, D.C., and inviting its representatives to many events sponsored by the Romanian emigre community. He is also in close contact with Valeriu Anania, a Romanian Orthodox Church monk in Detroit, who is considered by many persons as being an agent of the Romanian Government.

Romanian Iron Guard

Tiberiu Bumita, a former member of the RIG in Detroit and its Simist group, is now being criticized by the Romanian emigres for his articles in Romanian exile publications urging collaboration with the Romanian Government, stating that such policy is consistent with current American policy. He is also being accused by the Romanian exile colony of being an agent of the Romanian Government as a result of his statements.
