1. According to source, the al-Jihad al-Muqaddis (Holy War Fighters) has grown to more than two hundred carefully selected men in Syria and Lebanon. Its organizer, Ibrahim ABU-DAYYI, now plans to send two representatives to the Grand Mufti in Cairo very soon to explain to him in detail what has been accomplished.

In Damascus, during the past week, Akram HAURANI, Syrian Defense Minister and Mufti supporter, told ABU-DAYYI that all possible assistance would be given to the Holy War Committee on receipt of a statement from the Mufti that he wanted the organization developed. So far it has been all ABU-DAYYI.

2. Source states that the most valuable recent recruit into the Holy War Fighters is Shaykh ISHBAYYI (or ISHIBAYYI), a Moslem Brotherhood leader from Syria.

4. Muhammad Nimr AWDAH, supposedly a Mufti man but regarded by source as a secret Communist, knows of the Holy War Fighters. He is not, however, a member, since ABU-DAYYI regards him with considerable suspicion.
