PER DCI 70-17

25 September 1946

COUNTRY: Russia.

SUBJECT: "Russian (Military) Strategy and Tactics," by Maj. Gen. Makoto ONODERA, Japanese Wartime Military Attaché at Stockholm.

DATE OF INFORMATION: Historical to present.

EVALUATION: As indicated.

REFERENCE: ONODERA, Maj. Gen. Makoto (Biographical Sketch of: SSU, 25 September 1946, DB #1226.

1. Subject study of Russian strategy and tactics, as attached, was submitted voluntarily by General ONODERA at the time of his interrogation in Tokyo (May - July 1946) as a document by which his professional ability and knowledge of military matters might be judged. ONODERA was not only the key figure in Japanese intelligence in wartime Europe -- the aspect with which the interrogation was primarily concerned -- but has also represented himself as a leading Japanese strategist specializing in Russian and German military matters. The author of various texts and manuals on the subject, he has been a student of the Russian language and of Russian military organization and strategy since his entrance into Tokyo Military Academy in 1917.

2. The evaluation of subject study is left to the proper authorities, although it should be indicated that ONODERA's motives, in cooperating so readily with his American interrogator, may or may not be due to a desire to assist the United States.

Attachment: 2 copies of 20-page photostat, "Russian Strategy and Tactics."

Distribution: G-2, CINCPAC, Tokyo.
