Aksam JOSEFOGLU, Radio Liberty employee, was visited at approximately 15:00 hours on 12 April 1962 at his home by two persons identifying themselves as being from the Soviet Consulate in Bonn. They had a letter from subject's sister in Russia. However, subject did not accept it since it was addressed to him in his former name and he did not wish to acknowledge that he was in fact the person to whom the letter was addressed. Subject was asked if he was satisfied in Germany and had enough money, etc.
