1. The situation reported in reference dispatch is fully understood here and continuing study is being given to the whole subject of communications between the Home Office and your activity.

(X) 2. We are advised that additional help is being sent to [] and we believe that this step should alleviate the immediate problem.

3. It is fully recognized that the present communications system is a temporary expedient which should be made to work as well as possible pending the establishment of entirely separate crypto channels for KNOBEY use in Germany. In view of certain larger considerations, it is not believed that the time has arrived yet to establish such facilities, although we expect that it will in the relatively near future.

4. We are considering this problem in close coordination with the communications people of the parent organization.
