IV. Accomplishments/Plans:

QRPLUMB Activity continued its publication and infiltration efforts at a high level, in spite of serious budget cuts resulting from the Graham/Rudman act. Among the new initiatives in FY-86, QRPLUMB established good relations with several Polish underground groups, resulting in the publication of "Samostiynist" journal in Poland and having it mailed into Ukraine from Poland. In response to increasing Polish interest in Ukraine, "Suchasnist" journal was translated into Polish and smuggled inside. In response to the Chernobyl catastrophe, QRPLUMB orchestrated an extensive telephone campaign to help notify people inside Ukraine of radiation dangers and published an information leaflet on the same topic, which was widely distributed inside. Among the books published by QRPLUMB for infiltration were "Afghanistan in Flames" and an essay collection, "Famine in Ukraine 1932 - 33". FY-86 also saw the beginning of a video distribution effort, and appropriately, the first tape produced for infiltration was "The Harvest of Despair", the prize winning account of the Ukrainian famine.

During FY-87, QRPLUMB will continue its publication efforts, but more emphasis will be given to production and infiltration of video cassettes. In addition, the QRPLUMB organization will continue its efforts to establish good working relationships with their East European neighbors to facilitate infiltration and publicize the plight of Ukrainians and other Soviet minorities.
