I. The Rift among members of the Rumanian National Committee.

The present conflict between members of the Rumanian National Committee in Washington, D. C., which resulted in the breakdown of the Committee's activities in the early part of January 1950, was allegedly caused by several factors:

1. The unanimous attitude of hostility against General Nicolae RADESCU which resulted in a desire from the majority of the members of the National Committee that he go into "retirement," and his subsequent refusal to do so.
2. The refusal of the majority of the Committee members to enlarge the National Committee, as had been requested by General RADESCU. . . .

As a result of the above mentioned disagreements. . . General RADESCU also quit the National Committee and began to organize another National Committee with the Liberal Party, the Eftimie GHERMAN Socialist Faction, and other personalities that are not members of the three main parties mentioned in the preceding paragraph. In addition, RADESCU also attempted to enlist the cooperation of the dissident National Peasant Group under the leadership of CRIHAN, fnm.

This is all the pertinent information on subject in this document.
