2. Concerning changes of name:

A. Subject was born Rostislav L'vovich ANTONOV 30 Nov 20.

B. PRQ I on subject, made out in 1951, stated that subject changed his name in May 1945 from ANTONOV to FREULICH to avoid repatriation. He then changed his name in May or June 1945 to Sergei SCHEBALIN in Kempton, U.S. Zone of Germany, to avoid repatriation. Subject's PRQ I (English version) appears to have been filled out by [] (p) on the basis of interviews.

C. Attachment A to this aide memoire states that subject changed his name legally to SCHEBALIN in June 1950 at the Munich Amt fuer Kriminaltechnische Statistik. This statement is taken from "additional biographic information" forwarded to Headquarters with subject's PRQ I. This additional biographic information presumably was collected by [] by personal interview with Subject.

D. The only handwritten PRQ I of subject's available says "See autobiography" in the entry for aliases, name changes, etc. The English translation of subject's autobiography is a little confused about subject's changes of names, but indicates that the name SCHEBALIN was first used by subject very shortly after the end of the war. The autobiography says nothing about any legal registered name changes.

E. With reference to paragraph 2 C above, note that subject's German identity ~~document~~ document (Kennkarte) which he held at the time he filled out his PRQ I was issued 20 June 1950 in Memmingen, Germany (west of Munich). This document was obtained in the name of SCHEBALIN. It is possible that SUBJECT did change his name legally at this time.

F. Note that SHERALIN is subject's mother's maiden name.
