traitor VLASOV. In the summer of 1943 he graduated from the "ROA" propaganda school in Dabendorf. Later he worked in the security department and personally was involved with dispatching agents to the rear of the Soviet Army. In 1946 he was living in the city of Kempten (American occupation zone of Germany), where he headed the intelligence school of anti-Soviet organizations of the so-called "group for the destruction of bolshevism." In 1951 he worked as an instructor at an American school in the city of Regensburg, where military attaches were apparently taught. According to agent reports, in 1953 he was used by American intelligence in the city of Vienna as an agent. In 1960 he was living in the United States. A photograph from 1943 is available.

The search case file is held by the Leningrad oblast UKGB of the Council of Ministers, USSR.
