RELEVANT INFORMATION Source: A German national with military experience and good connections eastward. 8. The Iron Guard: Since many members of the Iron Guard went into exile during Marshal Antonescu's government, their number is not unimportant. Their patriotism is undoubted, but their political ideas negative. They hold to the old Iron Guard ideas, although occasionally giving lip-service to democracy. If the constructive elements of the Iron Guard had decided to join the democratic organizations of the emigration, it would doubtless have been a considerable gain for future political development. Unfortunately this did not happen. Although many Iron Guard leaders perceive the necessity of this, the older leaders do all they can to prevent it. This policy has split the Iron Guard into several groups, some of which no longer recognize Horis SIMA'S authority; for example, the groups led by Garneatsa in the Argentine, Papanace in Italy, Pastor Boldeanu in France and Enescu in Spain. Others have completely abandoned the Iron Guard, and although the organization seems in the process of breaking up, efforts to draw its parts into the democratic organizations have not been successful. There are many tendencies which would permit the drawing together of these parts into a new independent organization on a democratic aspect, but nobody has yet made the attempt. The democratic parts of the emigration make no effort to approach the Iron Guard, but regard them with mistrust and drive them into isolation. THIS IS ALL THE INFORMATION PERTINENT TO THE SUBJECT IN THIS DOCUMENT. SECRET
