

Field & Stream

ELTINGE F. WARNER
Publisher

515 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK 22, N. Y.

A. J. McCLANE
Fishing Editor

November 22, 1950

Dear Beedle:

I'm rounding up all unfinished projects this morning, and number one is to remind you that Field & Stream is hungry for an article or two (or more) by yourself. I know you are busier than hell, but maybe sometime soon you can rough-dictate a piece which I can rework. Knowing your talent for just the right words, I suspect you can whip out a finished job without any further polishing. My ulterior motive, of course, is to get ideas on paper which will help block out the book which you should write. By the time we meet in Florida we'll have something to sink our teeth in.

Bass fishing has been excellent up in the Delaware country -- saw plenty of deer while out bird hunting last week -- but very few grouse. The woods were still too dry, the birds flushing at 20 or 30 yards. Caught a 6-pound 3-ounce rainbow in Cross River on a spoon while looking for smallmouths.

Everything normal otherwise.

Best regards,

A. J. McClane

Mc