FOREWORD

This gazetteer contains about 108,000 entries for places and features in Mainland China, including Tibet, Sinkiang, Inner Mongolia, and other "autonomous regions." Names for Chin-men Tao (Quemoy) and other offshore islands under the administration of the Republic of China are also included for convenience of reference, but names in Hong Kong, Macao, and Taiwan are not included. The entries consist of standard names approved by the Board on Geographic Names and unapproved variant names, the latter cross-referenced to the standard names. Users of the gazetteer should always refer to main entries for approved names.

The density of names is variable, reflecting the uneven coverage of map sources at comparable scales. Entries include the names of all first- and second-order administrative divisions (in addition to numerous special groupings between these two levels), populated places of various sizes, various other cultural entities, and a variety of physical features.

An effort has been made to obtain Chinese characters for all Chinese standard names from recent authoritative Chinese sources. Names available in Chinese characters have been romanized according to the Modified Wade-Giles transcription system as authorized by the Board on Geographic Names. This applies to many names of Mongolian, Tibetan, Turkic, and other language origin as well as to strictly Chinese names. Names for which Chinese characters are not available were taken, with or without modification, from roman-alphabet sources. Most of these apply to minor features in Tibet, Sinkiang, and Inner Mongolia.

A wide variety of Chinese and roman-alphabet sources were used in compiling the gazetteer, including both maps and textual materials. Most of the places and features can be identified on map series published by the Army Map Service at 1:250,000 or other scales. The names of all administrative divisions and their seats were taken from the 1965 Chinese administrative list which has been translated by the Joint Publications Research Service, Department of Commerce, under the title Handbook of Admin- istrative Divisions of the People's Republic of China, 1965 (JPRS: 32,223). Offshore coastal features can generally be located on charts issued by the Naval Oceanographic Office. The Atlas of the Republic of China, volumes I-IV, The National War College, Taipei, Taiwan, 1960-63, is a useful general, small-scale reference for names in both romanized and Chinese form. Due to the Chinese practice of applying specific names of administrative divisions to the corresponding administrative seats, especially at the second-order or hsien level, coupled with the not uncommon shifting of administrative functions from village to village, the accurate location of villages by name is sometimes difficult. Also, difficulty may be encountered in the identification and location of other named entities as a result of the dissimilarity of various Chinese maps of the same area.

Interpretation of entries

It has been necessary to express in code numbers and letters some of the information in the gazetteer in order to accommodate it to the machine method of tabulation.

Name.—Approved standard names and unapproved variant names appear in the first column. The variant names are always cross-referenced to the standard names by use of the word "see." Where part of a name is underlined, the use of the part not underlined is optional. Where two or more names are approved for a feature, each is identified in parentheses and any or all may be used. All names are listed by the specific element; thus Gulf of Tonkin is listed as Tonkin, Gulf of.

The diacritical marks used in approved names in Mainland China are, in names romanized by the Modified Wade-Giles system, the apostrophe (') and the dieresis (¨) and, in other approved names, the dieresis and the macron (ˉ). These marks are to be used whether the names are written in capital or in a combination of capital and lowercase letters.

In writing Chinese names in capital and lowercase letters the initial letter in each word, except those following hyphens, should be capitalized.

Designation.—The second column contains designations or abbreviations of designations, as listed below. Since practically all geographic terms have varied meanings, the senses in which the designator terms are used and the range of features to which they are applied in this gazetteer are stated in the list to reduce ambiguity. The distinctions that can be made in a given gazetteer will vary with the quality of the maps of the area and with the nature of the entities that are named. In Mainland China some of the features do not fit precisely into the categories used to designate them and others could be designated in two or more ways.

Latitude and longitude.—The third and fourth columns indicate geographic coordinates, with longitude based on Greenwich. Coordinates were generally read to the nearest minute and are for finding purposes only.

Coordinates were read at the map symbol for populated places and other entities occupying limited sites, at the mouth or lower ends of streams, at the summits of mountains and hills, at the extremities of capes and points, and near the centers or midpoints of other features. The positioning of features often differs widely on Chinese maps, and the coordinates for a given place may vary with the source.

Area number.—The number in the fifth column indicates the first-order administrative division in which the place or feature is located, as listed below:

44000	China (general)	44042	Tsinghai
