

Meals Requirement 'Hypocrisy' in 2d Report Sent to Rockefeller

By CHARLES GUTENBERG
The Moreland Ave. Commission proposed yesterday that the Legislature create a new type of liquor license which is payable for bars and taverns and that the bars and taverns be required to serve full meals.

The new license would open the way for bars in legitimate theaters. Theater operators who long have sought such permission indicated that they would begin installing bars at once if the Legislature acted.

In its second act of recommendations to Governor Rockefeller within the week, the commission urged that there be a tavern license without a statutory requirement for food.

The only present license for selling liquor by the drink in a public establishment is the restaurant liquor license, which requires maintenance of full kitchen facilities and a chef to prepare meals at all hours.

'Condemning Hypocrisy'
Condemning the "hypocrisy" of this requirement for bars in theaters, the report said that nearly 10,000 restaurant licenses in the state "most of which are in the city of New York and all of which are in the city of New York."

The new type of license, authorized by the Legislature, would be available to legitimate theaters and to stand-up bars in and near theater terminals, as well as to neighborhood taverns where workers stop for a beer or two on their way home to dinner or visit after dinner to watch television or engage in talk over a few drinks.

Many neighborhood taverns, whose patrons hardly ever call for a sandwich, a boiled egg or a pig's knuckle out of a jar, which eventually goes bad, or they keep a flame burning just to run up a gas bill as "evidence" of preparing meals.

The food requirement has not been enforced by the A.L.A. in its annual renewals of licenses of bars and taverns and in general ignored by the local police. But noncompliance is under from time to time by the A.L.A. to suspend the licenses of bars.

Asks for Public Hearings on Plan Before Any Action

By JOHN HEBBLY
ALBANY, Jan. 9—Assembly Speaker Joseph P. Carlini said today he expected no vote by the Legislature this year on Mayor Wagner's proposal to legalize off-track betting.

The Republican leader, an outspoken opponent of the plan, said the question should be aired at public hearings before being put before the Legislature.

Such a study, Mr. Carlini said, could be undertaken either by a standing committee of the Legislature or by a special group, including appointees of the Governor. He suggested that the inquiry look particularly into Mayor Wagner's contention that present gambling laws cannot be enforced.

Mr. Carlini made the comments in making public an 82-page report on off-track betting in England. The report—"Pattern for New York"—is based on a study conducted last summer by Henry D. Paley, director of information of the Assembly, and John Glavin, assistant to the chairman of the

HARRIMAN URGED FOR SENATE RACE
Liberals, Sure Mayor Won't Run, Lean to Ex-Governor—He Appears Receptive

By CLAYTON KNOWLES
The Labor party in the United States is pushing the nomination of W. Averell Harriman for the United States Senate.

The effort is predicated on the belief, reluctantly accepted but now strongly held, that Mayor Wagner cannot be persuaded to run this fall against Senator Kenneth B. Keating, the Republican incumbent.

The committee of the Labor party, headed by the former Governor Harriman, would be the strongest Democratic-Labor candidate of Mr. Wagner does not run.

Mayor's Job Unfinished
In a speech before the City Budget Commission last night, Mayor Wagner said that newspaper columnists and political experts were predicting that he would leave his city post for another office.

"But I am not for it," he declared. "I like my job as Mayor of the city of New York City."

"There is a challenge to be met, as has a challenge as I should have faced in my public life. I have ever faced in my public life the challenge of change. I have ever faced in my public life the challenge of change. I have ever faced in my public life the challenge of change."

Pentagon Says 'Are Not Dependable'—Favors Bombers to Nation's Security

By JOHN H. PENTON
WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—The Defense Department declared today that the nation's long-range missiles "are not dependable."

The statement, issued at 2 A.M., was the first public comment from a stunned Administration on the rapid deterioration of relations with Panama that developed last evening.

The first-up President Johnson and his top aides, including Secretary of State Dean Rusk, were in the White House last night.

State Thought
The State Department, noting that Panama had suspended diplomatic relations, said it would have no comment until later today, when the basic facts of the situation had been assembled.

However, the department asked the Pentagon to collect as much information as it could to help all fact from rumor. The first reaction of officials was to hope that much of the Panamanian official outrage was intended to assuage nationalistic feelings and that apologies and arrangements could be made later to smooth over the incident.

But these officials conceded that they did not yet know the details and dimensions of the situation.

Test of Mideast
WASHINGTON, Friday, Jan. 10 (UPI)—Following is the text of the Pentagon statement on the Panama riot issued by Arthur Sylvester, Assistant Secretary for Public Affairs:

"At 4 P.M. today, Jan. 9, a group of Panamanian students entered the Canal Zone carrying Panamanian flags. The students proceeded to the Balboa High School grounds and marched with North American students near the flagpole. Five Canal Zone police officers with rifles fired on the students."

Mr. Collier, who will have to manage the bill on the floor, snarled wily and said:

"I feel that I have a just cause in asking for this rule." He was time, Mr. Collier went on, to raise a standard to which the wise and just might repair.

Senate Group Kills A Part of Tax Plan

By JOHN D. MORRIS
WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—The Senate Finance Committee rejected today the main revenue-raising feature of the Administration's tax bill.

The panel deleted provisions that would have abolished Federal income tax deductions for state and local gasoline taxes and for automobile and drivers' license fees.

The rejected provisions were designed to yield $330 million in annual revenue to the Treasury to offset partly the revenue-losing tax cuts provided by the bill.

In another action, the committee narrowly defeated a Republican move to continue the process of a per cent tax credit on income from corporation dividends. It refused, 9 to 8, to

By JACK RAYMOND
WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—President Johnson announced today the long-expected resignation of Russell L. Gilpatric as Deputy Secretary of Defense.

The President announced at the same time the equally expected appointment of Secretary of the Army Cyrus R. Vance to succeed Mr. Gilpatric.

Mr. Vance thus will be the second-ranking official in the Pentagon, under Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Stephen Ailes, Under Secretary of the Army since the Kennedy Administration came to office in 1961, was moved up to Secretary of the Army.

In a more surprising development, President Johnson was reportedly reported today to be planning to drop the posts of Naval and Air Force aides at the White House.

President Johnson, in what is described as a streamlining measure, is expected to retain only the military aide for the traditional protocol and military liaison duties.

The present military aide, who of information affecting foreign relations, partly because they represent the Army at the White House and is also the question the wisdom of the

CL.A. DROPS CLOAK AND MEETS PRESS

By MAX FRANKEL
WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—The Central Intelligence Agency held a new conference today. The subject was the state of the Soviet economy, but the C.I.A. findings about that had already been leaked to the press.

The event today was news because the agency, which only a few years ago was reluctant to list its telephone numbers, has decided to show as much of itself as possible to the public.

Long bothered by the widespread criticism of some of its failures and never able to boast of its cloak-and-dagger triumphs, the agency has found something to advertise—its numbers, said its analysts.

In Mr. John Armstrong's words, the agency has decided to show as much of itself as possible to the public.
