PREFACE

This publication is intended as a guide to the executive apparatus of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU). It includes a functional directory [redacted]

[redacted] and an index of names.

25X6
25X6

The directory lists personalities associated with the known components of the Central Committee apparatus and a number of officials whose affiliation in the apparatus cannot be determined. Also listed are certain former officials of each component. Where known, their activities since leaving the unit have been recorded. Each entry includes, to the extent available, the individual's full name and his desk or specialized assignment.

The operations of the Central Committee apparatus are only partially documented. For this reason, selected comments on the careers or publications of responsible officials have been included in order to provide possible insight into the activities of a given section. Readers are cautioned that former positions mentioned in the "comment" column may pertain to organizations which have since been renamed or which no longer exist.

[redacted] Users are encouraged to submit comments on omissions or suggestions for additions.

25X6
25X6

This report was produced solely by CIA. It was prepared by the Central Reference Service and coordinated with the Office of Current Intelligence. The information is current as of March 1969.

NOTE ON POSITION TITLES

The functions of certain Central Committee officials, aside from chiefs, deputy chiefs, consultants, etc., are not always self-evident or in fact fully understood. It is believed that instructors are responsible for drafting the directives passed down to departments in regional Party committees and for gathering information on the fulfillment of these directives. In addition, they provide instruction for dealing with operational difficulties and defects at lower levels of the Party. Inspectors apparently rank higher than instructors, and are charged with the inspection and control of the Party and government agencies which their sections oversee. Carefully selected and trained in the mechanics of Party operations, they are sent into the field to secure pertinent data from lower Party levels and to issue on-the-spot instructions for the improvement of any shortcomings which may be observed. Central Committee lecturers seem to be primarily identified with the Propaganda Section. They are apparently briefing officers who explain Party directives and, in addition, frequently contribute articles on Party affairs to the press. Responsible workers probably include officials who serve in any of a number of capacities but whose functions and, frequently, departmental affiliations are for some reason not disclosed.
