Review of Articles for MR-54

1. The articles in MR-54 are extremely interesting and well prepared, and I have no substantive comments to make concerning any of them.

2. I am still interested in the idea of developing simple black-and-white maps which would appear on the same page with the text. The article on Asiatic USSR could well use a number of these maps, as could some of the other articles appearing in this issue. In spite of the fact that separate maps are being prepared and will be included in the final MR, I feel that a more integrated picture could be developed by closer proximity of maps to text. Your reaction to this idea, as well as suggestions for any possible trial that might be given it, would be greatly appreciated.
