B. OTHER ACTIVITIES

2. The winter trimester of the Voluntary Language Training Program began on 7 January with a record enrollment of 409 students. 57 classes began in 15 languages. Included in the above total were 21 students for whom there were no classes because of insufficient registration. The following classes were not begun in the new trimester of the VLTP due to lack of sufficient enrollment, with the exception of Swahili, where no instructor was available. Almost all of these students left on base can resume next trimester with a group of sufficient size. The saving effected by not running these undersized classes amounts to approximately $3600.
