25X1D

25X1C

25X1D 1. The attached [REDACTED] proposal relative to [REDACTED] of guided missiles was submitted [REDACTED] to the Assistant Director for Scientific Intelligence, Central Intelligence Agency, on 14 March 1956, and subsequently referred by that office to the Guided Missile Intelligence Committee on 21 March 1956.

25X1C

2. Briefings presented to the Committee by Air Force and Army representatives emphasized the long standing U.S. cognizance of and interest in the [REDACTED] as an intelligence collection mechanism. The briefings further highlighted U.S. projects and plans in this area and indicated a relatively free exchange of information in this field [REDACTED]

25X1D

25X1C

25X1C

25X1C

3. It is the opinion of the Guided Missile Intelligence Committee that the [REDACTED] proposal is, to a great extent, derived from a knowledge of [REDACTED] interest in and activities related to [REDACTED]

25X1D

25X1D

4. The Guided Missile Intelligence Committee has concluded that the use of [REDACTED] is a feasible mechanism for the collection of certain elements of guided missile intelligence and that there is a reasonable prospect of producing suitable scientific aids for such collection.

25X1D

25X1C

5. The Committee has further concluded that present [REDACTED] efforts in this field, together with the relatively complete exchange of information
