This book — timely as the next step in Red China's bid for power — tells the full story of what has happened, is happening, and may happen in today's China. It probes the motives and policies of a regime whose prospects are sure to shape world history. For the first time, Peking's plans — and its ability to achieve them — are interpreted in the hard light of facts.

This extraordinary report was written by a former Assistant Chief in the Department of State and a group of specialists at the Center for International Studies. W. W. Rostow explores in highly readable style Red China's past, her present relationship to Russia and the West, her economic and social problems, and her intentions in Asia.
