

NOTE FOR MR. KIRKPATRICK

27 Dec 61

25X1A6a

As an example of one COS who seems to appreciate being inspected, I cite [redacted] and immodestly quote the following from his letter of 21 December:

"Dear Dave,

"I received your letter and certainly appreciate your discussing with J.C. the personnel matter which you and I talked over. Even though, as you said in your letter, he did not manifest any particular interest or say that he would do anything concerning this problem, he evidently took what you said seriously as since then I have received word from him concerning this individual's transfer. It is not coming about as soon as I desired, but at least it is in the mill.

"As you know, the [redacted] Assessment Team was here three weeks after you were here. From what I heard after they finished with us, we made a good showing. I attribute this a great deal to your visit, because as a result of your visit and comments and observations made by you while here, I was prompted to make a few changes and take action along certain lines which improved the Station considerably."

Paragraph 1 above refers to [redacted] who is professionally competent but personally a sad character. I arranged with J.C. to have him moved out.

Paragraph 2 refers to a long bull session [redacted] and I had after I had completed the inspection. We discussed practically everything, and I sounded off quite freely. This illustrates the value of a good relaxed summing-up session before leaving a station.
