

Harvard 'Family Party'

'Big Fizz' Far From Fizzle

By Frances Rowan

HARVARD'S Hasty Pudding Club came to town for a one night stand yesterday and brought with it a score of parties attended by Harvard grads, Harvard men and some of Washington's prettiest debutantes.

Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy, a Harvard Alumnus, and his son, Malcolm, were among the VIPS in the audience that cheered the famed club's annual hilarious and racy production of "The Big Fizz" at Lisner Auditorium.

"This is a family party," Patrick Hayes, 3d, vice president of the Washington Harvard Club, said looking around the filled auditorium.

Before the show which was presented by the Harvard Club of Washington, there were many dinners, a lot of them for young people. Afterwards the entire cast went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hobart A. Spalding for an after-theater party and dancing. Best known undergraduate there was Prince Aryn, younger brother of the Aga Khan IV, who was in the cast of the show benefiting the Harvard Scholarship Fund.

Arriving at the auditorium before the curtain went up were Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Garrison Norton whose dinner guests included the U. S. Ambassador to the Organization of American States and Mrs. John Dreier, Rep. and Mrs. Laurence Curtis, Director of the International Cooperation Administration James Smith;

Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution and Mrs. Leonard Carmichael; Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency and Mrs. Robert Amory Jr. and Mrs. Milburn Russell.

BIGGEST DINNER for cast members was the one given by Mrs. Robert French Evans, whose husband, Col. Evans, has been on an inspection tour of South East Asia.

The Evans' daughter, Kate, home on vacation from Bryn Mawr was at the dinner, as were Didette van Slyck and her Radcliffe roommate, Anita Bridgeman; Jane Schroeder and her Wellesley roommate, Tween Harrill and Deborah Gale and her roommate at Sara Lawrence, Robin Moles.

Other Washington girls

there included, Sandy Robinson, Edie Murphy, Polly Graham; Sally Hand, and Debbie and Gail Owen. Debbie is home from Smith and Gail from Westover.

French Counselor and Mme. Pierre Pelen gave a dinner for a small group of young people that included their 17-year-old daughter, Elizabeth.

Diplomatic daughters and more members of the cast were guests of Capt. and Mrs. William G. Holman and their daughter, Lynn, a student at Radcliffe. Some of the girls were Rosemary Garran, daughter of British Commercial Minister and Mrs. I. P. Garran; Makareila Alba, daughter of Spanish Minister and Senora de Alba and Elizabeth Rodriguez, daughter of former Chilean Ambassador and Senora de Rodriguez.