

CPYRGHT CLINE RETURNS TO US WITH FAMILY

Dr. Ray S. Cline, newly appointed intelligence department director of the U.S. General Intelligence Agency, left for home yesterday with his wife and two daughters after a brief visit here.

Dr. Cline, former director of the American Naval Auxiliary Communication Center here, came here last Sunday to pick up his family which he left behind when he went to Washington to assume his new post two months ago.

Gen. Chiang Ching-kuo, Minister without Portfolio, saw the Clines off at the airport.
