HIGH LEVEL TREASON

Zbignied Brzezinski, member of the State Department's Policy Planning Council, has announced that "Communism is dead." Apparently the Vietnamese Communists, who have killed 13,000 American boys, don't know that. And the captive nations of Eastern Europe are not aware of it, either; nor have the 30 million people enslaved in Cuba been informed of the demise of Castro, who has recently held a planning conference for the Communist conquest of all Latin America. One-sixth of the surface of the Earth and one billion people are currently under the iron heel of Communist dictators. Apparently the State Department has failed to communicate to these peoples the glad tidings that Communism is dead.

Brzezinski speaks of "the waning ideological conflict among the more developed nations" and the "decline of violence among the more developed nations."

These preposterous statements would not be worthy of serious consideration were it not a fact that Brzezinski is a cohort of Walt Rostow in the subversive plot to coalesce the U.S. and the USSR.

A sinister group of Russian Khazars, headed by Rostow, have had amazing success in proselyting a vast sector of the intellectual community in the colleges and in the foundations. In the 1940s this clique captured the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and in 1950, Rostow got $6 million from the Central Intelligence Agency to set up the Center for International Studies, which is now subsidized by the State and Defense Departments as well as the CIA. Harold Isaacs, a dangerous Leftist, is now the top Brain Truster of this pro-Soviet garrison which has received million dollar fees to make secret studies for Dean Rusk and Bob McNamara on how to handle international affairs with a view of affecting a world government after a period of peaceful co-existence with the Soviet Union which they claim is "mellowing." They also make reports for the guidance of the CIA in its cloak and dagger operations at home and abroad. One of their pro-Soviet comrades is Jerome Wisner who is now Provost of MIT.

Abe Fortas and Arthur Goldberg, of Russian Khazar ancestry, have sold President Johnson on the long-range planning ideas of the MIT boys. Highly reliable intelligence sources have advised WO that Walt Rostow, Harold Isaacs and Abe Fortas are the chief foreign policy-makers of our Government. LBJ seems to be completely mesmerized by these trusted friends. Other less known plotters in this subversive ring include Max F. Millikan, former Assistant Director of the CIA, and Andreas F. Lowenfeld, a legal adviser of the State Department under both Kennedy and Johnson.

Anyone who challenges the wisdom of this group is denounced as anti-Semitic; that is enough to silence any politician or government bureaucrat. Even the generals and admirals in the Pentagon are afraid to criticize them except in whispers among themselves. However, in fairness to these gentlemen, WO can reveal that several high ranking military officers did get up enough courage to privately advise the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee that this pro-Soviet garrison is primarily responsible for the "no-win" policy in Vietnam and have suggested that these conspirators ought to be tried for treason.

Unfortunately, the U.S. Senators lack the courage to probe in depth the covert activities of this subversive group. Previously, the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee started a full-scale secret investigation of this group but mysteriously dropped the inquiry without revealing its sensational findings.

FOREIGN AID DE LUXE

The Shah of Iran's recent trip to Washington was not in vain. President Johnson is going to give His Imperial Royal Majesty Mohammad Reza Pahlavi a second squadron of the latest U.S. 16F-4D Phantom Jets, $40 million net. This is in addition to gifts of $1.370 billion, plus uncollectable loans of $380 million.

Simultaneously, Soviet Russia is allowing the Shah $100 million in "unsophisticated" military hardware, and building a $200 million steel mill at Isfahan. But the Soviets never make "gifts" in their foreign aid programs like LBJ does. Russian aid is always a shrewd barter deal; in this instance, the Shah must furnish Russia $15 billion in natural gas over a fifteen-year period for the $300 million in armaments and the steel plant.

A few years ago, the people of Iran ousted the Shah and he fled to Paris with his money. Then the CIA hired mercenaries to stir up street riots and eventually, with the aid of mutinied troops, they restored the Shah to his throne. In return, the Shah rewarded us by playing footsie with Israel, thereby creating Arab disunity.

The Shah handsomely rewarded himself by stashing away in Swiss banks $200 million payable in U.S. and British currency. (The only gets $250,000 a year as king.)

The Shah is now dickering with Turkey to build connecting oil pipelines to the Mediterranean that will render the Suez Canal virtually useless for oil transportation. The Shah's personal fees on this deal have not been disclosed.

After the Shah's good-will trip to Washington to see LBJ, he dropped by Paris where he ordered a customized crystal bathtub. The illuminated bottom gives the bath water prismatic colors; the tap, fused on a panel of marble, is concealed in a gilded bronze dolphin with ruby eyes—real rubies!

A State Department official says off-the-record: "Well, the Shah is our man—or at least we got a piece of him. Unfortunately, the Soviets have a bigger piece of him. But thus far we are keeping him neutral." How long?

DESCENT FROM OLYMPUS

Today, the most refreshing thing in Washington is that President Johnson has been jolted into an "open door" policy for all Members of Congress.

Since the recent popularity polls showed that LBJ is losing out with the voters, he has descended from Mount Olympus. Whereas last year he was so snooty that he even snubbed his old pals in the Senate, and Democrat congressmen could only get an audience with him in groups to discuss their local problems, all this has suddenly been changed.

Now any Member of Congress — Democrat or Republican — can readily get an appointment to see good, old Lyn Johnson. All even rookie Congressmen have to do is phone W. Marvin Watson, the White House appointments secretary, and he will set up a date for them to see the President, who will listen to their problems with sympathetic understanding. And he might even do them a small favor if they swear eternal fealty to the LBJ banner.

But LBJ doesn't just wait for his phone to ring from Capitol Hill — he phones 'em and invites them down to his lair. Recently, Senator William Proxmire (D-Wis), a stalwart Senate liberal, with big Federal spending ideas, made a speech on the Senate floor advocating a $9 billion budget cut and criticizing the LBJ 10% surtax. LBJ immediately phoned Prox inviting him down to the White House. Prox said later: "When you confront the President face to face he presses his argument with great force . . . He's armed to the teeth . . . as they say in pro football, he likes to hit; and he hits hard and fast."

LBJ nearly twisted Prox's arm out of its socket; returning to his office crest-fallen, Prox said: "I'm still convinced that rather than increase taxes the President can and should withhold spending."

More and more Members of Congress are resisting LBJ's brand of blandishments and coercion as they listen to the voice of the people back home.

RACIAL SURVEY

Within a few weeks an unprecedented racial survey of almost every school in the Nation—North and South—will be under way. The newly-organized Office of Civil Rights (OCR) in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will conduct the survey.

An annual survey of school systems in the South and border states have become a standard procedure in the U.S. Office of Education. School districts and individual schools in the districts were surveyed on the racial composition of their enrollment and staff. State superintendents in these 17 states already have been notified about the 1967 survey and superintendents in the North and West will be notified soon, says the National Education Association, which has spark-plugged the survey.

The NEA has been strongly promoting classroom integration since 1954, the year of the Warren integration decision. In the early days the NEA claimed that integration of Washington schools, would bring a vast saving in the school budget. Now, the NEA hints that a 100% boost for Washington schools may be necessary in order to save them from total breakdown.

The most recent activity of the NEA has been inciting teachers' strikes under the fiction that teachers are underpaid. Statistics show that teachers, who only work nine or ten months of the year, average $7,119 annually.

LIGHT

WASHINGTON OBSERVER NEWSLETTER No. 38 (May 1, 1967) predicted the end of Michigan Governor George Romney as a GOP Presidential candidate. Nevertheless, he is still in the race, propped up as if by invisible pillars. One of the invisible supports keeping Romney in the race is that his early collapse, pointed up in WO 38, has thrown the political timetables of other Republican candidates askew; they are now trying to keep him in the race instead of knocking him out!

Richard M. Nixon's new campaign manager, Ex-Governor Bellmon of Oklahoma, was pulled off Romney fast after he had opened up on him, and Nelson Rockefeller sought to shore up Romney by emphasizing his own alleged intention not to run. Nixon knows he can pick up convention delegates more easily from Romney than from any other liberal. As for Nelson Rockefeller, his hope for the nomination is based upon his appearing as the savior of the liberals at the latest possible moment. So, Romney, despite his persistent blunders in matters great and small, still remains the only liberal candidate running for the Republican nomination.

Polls showed Romney dropping 20 per cent as a result of his incredible handling of the Detroit riot situation; he suffered another plunge when he emerged as a dove on the Vietnam war after asserting that he had earlier been "brainwashed" by the Johnson Administration and by the generals and diplomats in While Approved For Release 1999/09/07 : CIA-RDP75-00001R000200330001-9 Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Charles Percy (R-Ill) remain in the wings deciding when to make their move. Soon after they do, Mr. Romney will be back in the laundromat, wondering what happened.

PEARSON'S PATSIES

As the world knows, four employees of Senator Tom Dodd (D-Conn) conspired with journalist Drew Pearson and stole hundreds of official documents from their boss.

What the world doesn't know is that at least five and possibly as many as six employees were in on the betrayal. This information comes to WO from two separate sources. Both sources are agreed that the real instigator of the plan to destroy anti-Communist Dodd has yet to surface. This person, a long-time, paid agent of the subversive Anti-Defamation League, is still on Dodd's payroll as a trusted employee.

Jeremy Horne, another Pearson-ADL stool pigeon, is still plying his trade as an undercover agent. Under the pretense of peddling John Stormer's book, None Dare Call It Treason, he engages Conservatives in long-distance telephone conversations, trying to inveigle them into saying something anti-Semitic. What the other party doesn't know is that each conversation is taped.

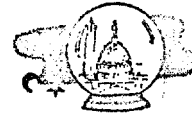

Observations

While Michigan's Governor, George Romney, travels to other states, a Recall movement against him has been instigated by Michigan Conservatives. It has little chance of success, however. . . . Selma Shapiro, public relations director for Random House, has just announced a new book, allegedly co-authored by Stokeley Carmichael, on black power. The book was really written by the co-author, Charles Hamilton, professor of political science at Chicago's Roosevelt College. The book calls for "violent warfare" inside America unless whites can be humbled. . . . "Doctor" Marion Francis Ashley-Montagu is a well-known anthropologist who advocates racial intermarriage. His real name is Israel Ehrenberg. Asked one noted scientist of another: "Why didn't he change his name to King Henry the Fourth?" . . . Another well-publicized "scientist" is "Dr." Albert Ellis, sexologist, who advocates free sex for all. WO will pay $20 to any subscriber who supplies his real name and proves it.

The Labor Department has just stated that the intensification of the war in Vietnam has created more than a million new jobs. . . . Secretary of Defense Robert Strange McNamara's pet economy idea is to cut back on nuclear missile production while the Soviet's Amtorg Trading Corporation is currently buying in the U.S. vast quantities of strategic, scarce metals used in their nuclear missile and rocket programs. The Reds are paying premium prices to American firms for all the rhodium, palladium, platinum and other rare status symbol for U.S. Senators is a chip diamond lapel pin that cost the taxpayers $30 each, thanks to a resolution fathered by Sen. "Dolly" Dirksen (R-Ill). . . . Pro-Soviet elements within the CIA, in an effort to induce President Johnson to attack Red China, have presented him with pictures of China's nuclear installations, rocket launching sites and a detailed report on the Red Chinese armored combat division already in North Vietnam.

Crystal Ball

Through a flurry of falling leaves, October 22 shows through the infallible Crystal Ball.

Peaceniks, led by violent Leftist Jerry Rubin, are picketing the Sheraton-Park Hotel, in Washington, where 4000 business executives are meeting as the "industrial reserve," to be mobilized in the event of all-out war. This event will catch the D. C. Police by surprise (unless they read WO) because the peace marchers are expected at the Pentagon on that date.

It looks like the first Red Chinese satellite in space by the end of this month, which is the anniversary of Mao's 18th year of triumph. High-flying U-2 reconnaissance planes, based in Taiwan, making daily flights criss-crossing Red China, have spotted the launching site and observed construction progress.

* * *

Despite the fact that President Johnson took prompt forthright action to avert a railroad strike, he will make no effort to prevent Walter Reuther's UAW from tying up the automotive industry that is engaged in defense production.

In early October Walter Reuther will call a coalition meeting of peaceniks and civil righters in Chicago to formulate plans for a liberal third party. His ploy is to pressure LBJ to give full support to his auto strike demands. LBJ will capitulate. He will do anything to block Bobby Kennedy from entering the Presidential arena.

There is a strong possibility Congress will remain in session for the rest of 1967 due to the controversial tax boost bill and war-on-poverty legislative proposals.
