Federal Jury Pushing Quiz of Galindez Case

Special to the New York Post.

Washington, May 14—A federal grand jury today continued to dig into the Galindez case after indicting an ex-FBI man on charges of acting for the Dominican Republic without registering as a foreign agent.

Named in the indictment was John Joseph Frank, 42, a Washington attorney who worked for the FBI from 1941 to 1949 and later was employed by the super-secret Central Intelligence Agency before retiring to private practice.

Frank, "also known as John Kane," was an unregistered Dominican agent from about May, 1954, to the present, according to the four-count indictment.

It was reported that the indictment was only the first result of the grand jury's investigation of activities in this country by agents of the Dominican dictator, Rafael Trujillo.

The grand jury investigation was prompted by the mysterious disappearances of Dr. Jesus de Galindez, a Columbia University instructor and bitter foe of Trujillo, and Gerald Murphy, an American flier.

Galindez vanished in New York City in March, 1956. It has been charged by his friends that he was murdered or kidnaped and taken to the Dominican Republic by Trujillo supporters.

Later in the year Murphy, who had been employed by a Dominican air line, dropped out of sight in that country after telling his friends that he had flown a "sick" man he believed to be Galindez from New York to the Dominican Republic. The U. S. State Dept. has rejected the Dominican explanation of Murphy's disappearance.
