

SINGAPORE'S LEE
TO VISIT; BLAMED
BRIBERY TO U.S.

By the Associated Press

Singapore's Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew, who once accused the United States of offering him a $3 million bribe, will visit Washington Oct. 17-18 and meet with President Johnson.

In announcing today that Lee had accepted an invitation to come here, the White House said he also will visit New York and several other cities.

Lee created a furor in August 1965 by charging he had been offered a $3 million bribe to keep quiet about Central Intelligence Agency activities in Singapore in 1960.

The charge was denied by the State Department here.
