Delivered to [REDACTED] the cable prepared by Jim Garrison on the shipment to [REDACTED]. The Director referred the matter to Stuart Hedden who came to see me about it. In my presence he checked with [REDACTED] to insure that the Eastern European Division had no other place in Europe where they would like to store the materiel and then advised me that the Director wanted it shipped back to the United States. I accepted the responsibility for preparing a cable to go to [REDACTED] on Monday and for clearing it with [REDACTED] before dispatch.

I notified [REDACTED] Procurement and Supply Office, to prepare the cable in coordination with [REDACTED]. Ted was not in but I talked to [REDACTED] about it. He thought that [REDACTED] may have been hasty in saying that it was all right with the EE Division to ship the materiel back to the States, but, in any case, he will work with the Procurement and Supply Office to insure that a cable is ready for our consideration on Monday morning.
