

New York Times, 28 November 1958.

Sidney Gruson article, Berlin, datelined 27th.

"The newspaper [not specified] put out special editions and the stock market registered gains of as much as ten points. Der Kurier, an independent paper, called the six-month period proposed by the Soviet Union a "tactical retreat" by Moscow."