We have obtained authority to employ three radio technicians to assist you in the installation of the Cyprus station. Security waivers have been granted for this purpose, so that unless we run into unforeseen obstacles in recruiting we should be able to get them to you whenever you need them.

We will attempt to recruit at least two of these three men with the proper qualifications for monitoring technicians so that they can be used for monitoring operations if we so desire. It is also my desire to send these men to school to learn splicing of the RG-85/U cable. I am not sure whether we can do this without clearing them for security, but certainly will attempt to in the interest of the economy.

Please let me know at the earliest possible date how soon you will need at least one of these men and how soon you will need all three so that we can be guided accordingly in our recruiting.

Sincerely,

L. K. White
