SCOPE OF WORK:

The scope of work shall be in accordance with your letters of 15 April 1960 and 16 May 1960 and Specification No. 60-A-116-A dated 29 April 1960 entitled "Development Specification for the AP-3 and PS-10 Power Supplies" subject to the addendum noted below. A copy of the above-mentioned documents is incorporated herein by reference and made a part hereof. One copy of each is on file with the Contractor, the Contracting Officer and the Project Engineer.

ADDENDUM:

The proposal referred to above should be changed to read:

It is proposed that the power supplies be built with two outputs, as follows:

- Output A: +12 volts, 7 Amps max., unregulated. With no output load, the output voltage will be approximately +17 volts. When a 7 amp. load is drawn, the voltage will be approximately +12 volts. There will be no regulation against input line voltage changes. Ripple will be approximately 10% rms at full load when a 60 cps input voltage is used and about 1.5% rms at full load when a 400 cps input voltage is used.
- Output B: +12 volts, 2 amps. max., regulated against line and load changes. For +10% input line voltage changes the output will change no more than +2%. For load changes of no load to full 2 amp. load, the output voltage will change no more than 3%. Ripple at full load will be about 1% rms.

This output arrangement is proposed because of the evident requirement for additional regulated current for sensitive circuit elements, such a tube filaments, which could possibly be damaged by higher voltage at the instant of connection. It should be emphasized that the unregulated output is at +17 volts only when there is no load at all on it. The instant the 7 ampere load is switched on, the voltage will drop to the 12 volt level. The second deviation is the limiting of the maximum charging current for battery charging to 4 amperes instead of 8 amperes. This current is the maximum which the supply can deliver continuously. The higher currents obtainable in the other mode of operation are possible only because of the 50% duty cycle.

The proposed technical approach is very similar to that given in Contractor's proposal of 15 April 1960, except that the Zener diode is used to provide 2 amperes of regulated current instead of 1 ampere.
