On 4 December 1967 [redacted] installed the vacuum easel on the VG-1 enlarger. They connected the vacuum blower to the easel and leveled the surface of the easel. Photo Lab personnel re-focused the enlarger. The equipment performed essentially as expected. [redacted] plans to schedule an inspection of the equipment by [redacted] to be certain that the enlarger still functions properly. Having done this, [redacted] will have completed their contractual obligations.

FINAL

The contractor has completed all of the machining and assembly of the easel. I visited the contractor on 22 November to test the easel. Although the vacuum was not as strong as hoped, the equipment otherwise worked essentially as expected.

I will make arrangements to have the easel installed on the VG-1 enlarger during the week of 27 November. Assuming that the installation is successfully completed, this contract can be terminated shortly thereafter.

NARRATIVE REPORT

INTERIM

FINAL

I visited the contractor on 4 October 1967 to review this project. He had ^{machined} ~~modified~~ about 70% of the parts and the other parts should be completed within a few days. He had partially assembled the finished components and had all of the necessary purchased parts on hand.

The contract calls for a completion date of 1 October. The contractor should complete the assembly of the equipment within two weeks and have it installed within another two weeks.

Monthly progress reports are not required by the contract.
