New Russian Publication Regarding Flying Operations in the Arctic

25X1

The map distribution of landing places looks most interesting, according to [redacted] who passed this information on to me in the hope that CIA might be able to secure the whole publication from which the map was taken.

3. It is suggested that [redacted] might be requested to advise us how to best obtain the subject publication. Perhaps he would want to take the action himself or recommend that our representative [redacted] proceed according to certain guide lines. Knowing of the widespread CIA interest in the Arctic and Russian activities there, I offer this data for your information and action. Unless otherwise ordered, this Division will take no other official action regarding this Russian publication.
