LU-CHIAO AIRFIELD

This memorandum is submitted in reply to a request by OCI/FE for information concerning reported construction of a large airfield in the vicinity of Lu-Chiao, China.

The latest available photography of this region was taken by

25X1D

 This photography, noted below, covers the area within a 7-8 mile radius of Lu-Chiao and in addition gives coverage of an 6 mile wide strip from Lu-Chiao East to the coast.

This area was studied carefully, but no evidence of airfield construction was observed. Clouds covered small portions of the terrain and it is possible that early stages of airfield construction could have been hidden from view. Late reports indicate that there is more recent photo cover of this region. When this photography arrives in Washington it will be carefully studied in an attempt to locate the airfield reported under construction.
