the Security Office for approval. Such plans will be based upon the principle that senior supervisors present at the time of the emergency are responsible for the carrying out of the plans in building areas assigned to them. They may be assisted in this regard by such number of assistants as the exigencies of their particular situations require.

5. After approval by the Security Office, such plans will be maintained continuously on a current basis by the Building Emergency Officers concerned. Names of the Building Emergency Officers and Alternate Building Emergency Officers will be reported to the Security Office, which will thereafter be kept advised of any changes made in these assignments or in the plans.

6. The plans will include all areas occupied by personnel within the respective organizational jurisdictions of the Deputy Director (Plans), the Deputy Director (Intelligence), the Deputy Director (Administration), the Assistant Director for Communications, and the Director of Training, regardless of the number of buildings in which elements of the organization may be located. In those buildings occupied by more than one organization, the organization occupying the greatest amount of space will be responsible for the planning and execution of the plan concerning all units within the building. The senior Security Patrol Officer present will act as Emergency Marshal and will be in general charge of all activities at the site, coordinating the operations of the various Building Emergency Officers with each other, and the activities of all with fire fighters and others.

9. A progressive program of training and distribution of informative materials designed to familiarize all members of Central Intelligence Agency with self-protection and self-assistance measures and all other such techniques and methods as are developed by civil defense authorities for the benefit of the public will be carried on, under the staff supervision of the Central Intelligence Agency Emergency Planning Officer, by the Building Emergency Officers for their respective organizations. Announcements will be made on this subject to the Building Emergency Officers at future intervals and documents and materials will be distributed to them for their assistance.
