EAST GERMANY

Partial Border Agreement with FRG

Last weekend East and West Germany signed protocols delimiting their border in Luebeck Bay and an agreement covering West German fishing in East German territorial waters. In the past the disputed territorial waters had led to a number of incidents. The agreements were the latest success of the joint border commission which has met episodically over the past year to clean up disputed frontier areas on a piecemeal basis. During the commission's ninth meeting held last December, another agreement settled a disputed area between Luebeck Bay and the Elbe river.
