MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Central Intelligence
SUBJECT : Agency Pamphlet

This might well be a good time to start a project I mentioned to you: a new and more "with it" Agency pamphlet. Our goal would be to have a document that could be used both for informational and recruiting purposes.

Our tentative thoughts on the pamphlet are as follows:

- a. A standard size document (8-1/2 x 11) of some six to eight pages.
- b. At least two photos of, for example, the library and the Headquarters building.
- c. Contents that include: a brief history of intelligence and of the CIA; a description of the spread of talents and academic backgrounds of Agency employees; a simple organizational chart with brief descriptions of the components (Directorate level only); a short study of two or three "typical" employees (probably analysts); and a closing emphasizing the importance to America of maintaining a professional and capable intelligence service.

If you approve such a pamphlet, we would hope to have a draft in your hands within about a month.

Dear Mr. Reynolds,

You can imagine what sort of activity has been going on here with the change of command.

The facts are as I outlined them to your colleague, Ann Watson, on the telephone.

I am sorry it has taken me so long to get to this letter although in my own defense, I must say I didn't get it until 23 January.

Sincerely,

/s/ Angus MacLean Thuermer

Dear Mr. Bush:

The Overseas Writers of Washington D.C., a luncheon club of foreign affairs specialists, congratulates you on your confirmation as Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, and invites you to be our guest at lunch at a convenient date in the near future.

We would be honored if you could join us and talk for, perhaps ten to twenty minutes on the role of the Central Intelligence Agency and to share with us your experiences in Peking. This would be followed by a 30-40 minute question and answer period.

The Overseas Writers, as you may know, is an association of journalists founded by a group of American newsmen who attended the Versailles Peace Conference.

We would very much like to have you with us, and sincerely hope you will be able to attend.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Daniloff
Acting President
The Overseas Writers
Washington, D.C.

The Hon. George Bush
Director, Central Intelligence Agency
Langley, Va.

Mr. William Colby, Director
Central Intelligence Agency,
Washington, D.C. 20505

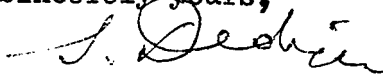

February 1, 1976

Dear Mr. Colby,

As you have, perhaps, heard I am holding courses on intelligence in Lund University—and building a library necessary for academic research and teaching of intelligence. During the past two years, thanks to your public relation office I have received some of your speeches, statements to the USA Congress etc. I would be most grateful if you could send me a bibliography of all your writings, statements etc. during and before your directorship of the CIA. I find your statements extremely valuable as a serious source of information and insights in the study of intelligence. Besides the bibliography I would appreciate to have all available writings of yours. I would appreciate to know your future address and announcements of any new writing you intend to do on the subject of intelligence.

Wishing you a full and useful life in the interest of your country, I am

Sincerely yours,

S. Dedijer
